

Fund objective and strategy

The Fund's investment objective is to provide monthly cash income, downside mitigation, and attractive risk-adjusted returns across various market cycles through a diversified pool of global liquid and illiquid credit assets. The Fund aims to capitalize on market inefficiencies and relative value opportunities within the global credit landscape while maintaining a balanced portfolio across multiple industry sectors and geographic regions. The Fund has no exposure to construction and development loans.

Monthly update

Fund

The Fund returned 1.88% net for the month. Performance was driven mainly by recovery in secondary market prices. Software, Materials, and Health Care were the leading contributors, adding a combined 70 bps. This was partially offset by weaker performance in Capital Goods and Consumer Services.

Last month, the Fund completed a successful exit from a direct lending primary PIK investment in a leading biosecurity and food safety producer in Europe. The investment was repaid, generating a 12.8% return for the Fund. Throughout the month, the Fund participated in new primary market transactions, including investments in a leading manufacturer of flexible packaging and a leading global provider of end-to-end specialized third-party logistics.

Market<sup>5</sup>

Leveraged loans posted their strongest performance in 11 months in April, supported by strong earnings, accelerating inflows, resilient macroeconomic data, and easing uncertainty surrounding the Iran conflict. European leveraged loans returned 1.96%, outperforming the US market, which returned 1.27%.

Market technicals remained favorable, as the supply-demand imbalance persisted: CLO issuance continued at a steady pace, while primary market volumes stayed subdued.
